

Welcome travelers to Stanislav Keep!

It is a time of uneasy peace between the kingdoms of France and England. A truce has been signed, plague and famine have subsided. Members of free companies across Europe have descended on a small village tucked beneath the trees.

This is the continuing saga of Stanislav Keep!

- What is this? This event is a place where reenactors, history buffs, and western martial artists can gather and live the life of our ancestors. (or at least a couple days of it.)
- Where and when? The event is set in western europe during the 14th-15th century.
- Where are the shows? There are no “shows” but scheduled interactive experiences where you can learn and participate.
- How do I act? Unlike Renaissance fairs and Medieval Times most participants will use their own voice and you should too.
- Is there a Feudal System? No, all titles are strictly for fun and have no real relevance during the event.
- What is required to attend this event? See below.

Period dress is required and is to be worn at all times when entering the event space!

- Most clothing has a lead time to manufacture, be sure to order in advance!

- What and where to buy clothing: Search the “Shop the look” section of the website for complete 14th and 15th century outfits. <https://historicenterprises.com/>
- Below are some examples of appropriate outfits. (courtesy of Historic Enterprises). If you have any questions about the right clothing, before you buy, email Gwen. gwen@historicenterprises.com
- Keep in mind it may be cold, especially at night, so wool hoods and coats are very helpful. Period eating gear can also be purchased at <https://historicenterprises.com/>
- 14th and 15th century Footwear can also be purchased from: <https://www.vikingleathercraft.com/>
- One last thing! We strive to stay away from anything not within the period or at least hide it from view during the duration of the event. This includes all sunglasses, watches, piercings/hair-dos, clothing, packaged food, cigarettes, etc. Please be discreet when taking photographs!
